sister, Annette, dead by her own hand after desertion by the man with whom she had eloped.

William MacDonald, a railroad conductor from the States, arrives and applies himself assiduously to the winning of the woman's pretty daughter, Hilda. Jules discovers that he is the man responsible for Annette's end and from that moment on it is certain that the conductor will meet death at the hands of either Jules or Hilda, with the odds strongly in favor of the cool and smiling Beaulieu.

McDonald and Beaulieu declare their intention to each other and the battle for the love of little Hilda is on. The American has told her many stories of Broadway and its luxuries but nothing of his wife and children in New York. She is undecided until having won her father's co-operation through a clever lie which holds out the promise that the old Scotchman will realize the hope of a lifetime and return in wealth to his native land, McDonald swears her and reveals to her his true character. She repulses him with the strength of desperation and Beaulieu arrives just in time to defend her from the mad old father, who is about to kill her with his hands."

Beaulieu, Hilda and the girl escape in a canoe. Then follows the much discussed "big scene" of the play. The little party arrives at a portage in the woods just as dark comes on. Gradually it becomes dark and darker, until finally there is not a semblance of light save for a smoldering camp fire. Beaulieu has declared his love to Hilda and she tells at last "the great desire" as she calls the rekindling of affection.

He has sent her away in the canoe with Hilda and Beaulieu and awaits the arrival of his enemy, whom he knows to be close on his trail.

Suddenly, without the slightest warning save the crack of a twig, plainly heard in the silent scene,

comes the blast and report of a shot from the darkness. Beaulieu throws himself to the ground, and McDonald believing him dead, or at least wounded, creeps upon him and then follows the furious fight, which cannot be seen, but every moment a muttered word is heard. At last, after fully a minute of fighting, a knife flashes and a body drops. By the small glimmer of a match struck by the victor and held over the vanquished, the audience sees the two faces, that of Jules bending over the still features of McDonald.

Her Heart was Broken

she could find nothing to cheer up

WEDNESDAY, DEC. 8 - 1909

In Monday's Courier Journal there appeared what purports to be an interview with Hon. Harvey H. Hunt, in which he would be a candidate for Congress for the next term to succeed himself. This announcement comes as a surprise, as Mr. Hunt, both on the occasion when he was a candidate six years ago, as well as when he was nominated to his friends here for a third term. This is the estimate which he himself put upon the extent of the period which he desired as a member of Congress, and it is no answer to this for him to say that other Congressmen have served a greater number of terms than he has served with great distinction. We are inclined to think that in this regard Mr. Hunt has been incorrectly reported.

In every session of the Legislature there are numerous bills introduced pertaining to the regulation of rail roads. We want one introduced, and believe it will pass, unanimously. It is to make a law to hang the freash-fresh which happens to be about every train in cold weather. Just about the time the coach becomes comfortable, one of these demophs will raise a window, the draft almost blowing away the hats of other passengers. The whole coach must be chilled to gratify the whim of the freash-fresh. Fresh air is right, but we would like to see established a colony on the Fiji Islands for the freash-fresh. He is by far the greatest nuisance the public has to contend with.

Hendricks Dies.

Robert Hendricks, who sustained a severe injury by falling from a horse, which appeared in last issue of The Climax, died at his home in Kirksville Wednesday night. It will be remembered that Hendricks inflicted the wound when he heard of the suicide of his friend, Oscar Osborne. Mrs. Osborne, who was shot at the same time by her husband, is improving and it is thought she will recover.

She "Nabbed" Him

About 10 years ago a young lady in Glasgow, secured a husband by asking her mother as she entered the parlor, if she would object to their marriage, which came as a surprise to the young man, who was present but had never courted her. The old lady smiled and said: "No, indeed, daughter, if he is willing." He called it a marriage and they were married. That now live in Chicago and are quite happy.—Home Care Gazette.

Golden Wedding.

The golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Barnes was celebrated at their home in the country on the 25th. About ninety guests were present, and the event will long be remembered by those who were there to enjoy the festivities. The old-fashioned brass candlesticks were used, as they were fifty years ago, while the decorations of ferns and flowers made the scene quite festive. A spread was served, which consisted of old ham, turkey, salad, cake and ice. Among the other persons present were Messrs. and Mrs. C. W. Turner, J. W. Denson, Joe Jones, Brutus White, and Mesdames Emma Milburn, Irene Roberts and Mrs. Will Cyrus Barnes. The three children of Mr. and Mrs. Barnes were present. The latter are Mrs. But Barnes Eugene Barnes, of this county, and Mr. Guston Barnes, of Somerset.

LEXINGTON, KENTUCKY

The largest and most commodious sale and storage plant in Kentucky. Floor space, one-half million pounds, shelter for 150 loaded wagons and free stalls for 300 horses. Redrying capacity one hundred thousand pounds per day, and storage for thousands of hogsheads. Our daily sales are grand, with prices averaging close to 15 cents for all grades up to this time. Send your tobacco as fast as ready, and be assured of fair treatment and the best price. Don't sell to speculators, as they must buy cheap enough to make a profit on your tobacco. We look for prices to improve through the season. I will greatly appreciate every load from my native county.

Respect,

Throat Coughs

Ask your doctor about these throat coughs. He will tell you how deceptive they are. A tickling in the throat often means serious trouble ahead. Better explain your case carefully to your doctor, and ask him about your taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

We publish our formulae for the cure of Throat Coughs, and we are sure that you will find it a most effective remedy.

Who makes the best liver pills? The Ayer Company, of Lowell, Mass. They have been making Ayer's Pills for forty years. If you have the slightest doubt about using these pills, ask your doctor. Do as he tells you, and you will be cured.

The burning of a few strips of zinc in the furnace or coal stove is said to be very effective in removing the soot which has accumulated in the flues and pipes.

There are many few men who have the capacity to handle an automobile and run a farm or ranch, or to write to the friend who gave you this recommendation. The recommendation is attempted the rest of the world to know.

The man who plants a tree whose shade he may not sit to enjoy and whose fruit he may not partake is a selfish man. The country needs more patriots of this type and among the younger generation as well as the old.

A creek in grazing is reported by two brothers, who have a garage near India, Colo. They graze a herd of 400 head of cattle and in the time the four-year-old apple tree in a service berry tree and in due time the forest land blossomed and now two acres of land are a valuable one and the result achieved quite unique.

In his book "Swine in America" Secretary of Kansas cites the case of a Colorado swine raiser who had experienced success with Hubbard's sows as a fattening ration for his pigs, and curing a given result in one-half the time that he could with corn. He cut the squashes in pieces and fed them, the hogs eating them up clean and shell and all.

The wonderment you gaze merrily and promises to equal in interest and pictures feeding the Cook-Perry polar set. Some folks are found who pronounce the wonderment a vulgar word perpetrated on the public at a long price, while as many others who are warm in singing its praises seem to be in a case where a fellow man better the evidence presented and then be his own judge.

Considerably better heating results may be had with the best fire box of the average steel range if the fire is checked quite a bit shortly after the fire is started, especially if the draft is strong. This causes the flame to rise more directly to the griddle above and not soot up the chimney. The air draft below the fire and the draft in the pipe may be regulated to secure the usual result.

A thought that should be consulting to the large class who have not been seriously interested in the money getting machine is that its possession need not add an essential element of content or happiness to life and homes already provided with the necessities and comforts of life. Happiness is the result of an atmosphere of domestic comfort in the home and is not dependent upon the owning of large estates on fat bank accounts.

In selecting a material for the building of the house it is well to use that which when put down with a covering of snow will be the nearest air and wind proof. On this account straw from the garden can hardly be excelled. Straw or stable manure is used, but the odor from the latter may be removed by the use of a strip of paper extending from the ground to the point where the building is to be erected. The paper will reach well to the side of the building.

A letter specialist gives the following suggestions for keeping the taste of slugs from the milk of cows which have it as a station: The slugs should be fed only after milking. The floors should be kept clean or slugs allowed to accumulate in the alleys, no more slugs should be fed than will be eaten up clean, and none of it should be fed to a milch cow. And, lastly, the stable should be kept ventilated in the winter. The known susceptibility of milk to odors will give the above suggestions are timely.

A new idea has lately been hit upon by the managers of the Life Insurance of New York city in the serving of their fancy fruits. An order was placed this season with a food fruit grower for a number of boxes of high red Spanish grapes. The boxes should have the word "Martin" applied to them. It was found that the grapes were not so good as the word "Martin" applied to them. The grapes were not so good as the word "Martin" applied to them.

Some experiments which have been carried on at Murrayville, Pa., along the line of a manufacturer of paper of different grades from fibers of the cornstalk seem to show quite conclusively that paper can be made there from at about one-half the cost of that manufactured from wood pulp. Provided this situation is as stated, the large field would seem to be opened up for the utilizing of hundreds of thousands of tons of stalks that annually go to rot in the corn fields, and the waste of the large factories in the destruction of their timber supplies would be removed. The situation of a corn belt congressmen has been called to these experiments, and he proposes to ask congress for an appropriation for the continuing experiment which will be used in the erection of a cornstalk paper plant that the matter may be given a thorough and official testing.

The right of the state and county boards of health to apply the tuberculin test to milk cows, and when necessary, destroy those believed to be infected, is an established right, upheld by Judge O'Connell of the Court of Appeals.

Notice.

All hunters are hereby warned not to trespass on the farm, known as the Z. T. Rice place, 11 miles from Richmond, on the Hill place. All violations will be punished accordingly to law.
